Frequent Dizziness, Loss of Balance, or Fear of Falling? VEMP Test Can Help | Sagar Speech & Hearing Clinic, Sagar (M.P.)

Have you ever felt the room spinning around you or experienced sudden unsteadiness while walking or standing?
These symptoms may not just be due to weakness — they could be signs of an inner ear (vestibular) disorder.

At Sagar Speech & Hearing Clinic, Sagar (Madhya Pradesh), we offer an advanced, painless diagnostic procedure — the VEMP Test (Vestibular Evoked Myogenic Potentials) — to assess your inner ear and balance system deeply and accurately.

🔬 What is the VEMP Test?

VEMP is a non-invasive and clinically trusted test that evaluates specific parts of your vestibular system—particularly the otolith organs (saccule and utricle) which help detect gravity and head movement.

The test works by measuring how your muscles (typically in the neck or eyes) respond to sound stimuli. These responses help audiologists determine how well your balance organs and related nerves are functioning.

🤔 When Should You Consider the VEMP Test?

If you suffer from:

- Recurring dizziness or vertigo
- Feeling unsteady while walking
- Frequent or unexplained falls
- Heavy-headedness or swaying sensation
- Balance issues with no visible cause

- Difficulty focusing vision when you move your head
- Neurology or ENT-referred balance symptoms

Then this test might reveal the true cause of your discomfort.

☑ Why Choose VEMP Testing?

Feature	Benefit
◈ Completely Painless	No injections or discomfort
◈ Safe & Quick	Entire process takes only a few minutes
◈ No Radiation	100% safe for all age groups
◈ Accurate Diagnosis	Detects even hidden vestibular dysfunctions
◈ Expert Testing	Performed by certified audiologists

It is highly recommended for detecting conditions like:

- Meniere's Disease
- Vestibular Neuritis
- BPPV (Benign Paroxysmal Positional Vertigo)
- Bilateral vestibular weakness
- Superior canal dehiscence syndrome
